

Day 2 update:

things went ok for me today, still no route points and kept the bike upright in the tests. unfortunately team 3/4 (kevin) is out...but don't worry the bike is fine! we rode the same course today but one technical mountain trail was cut out and replaced with road, i guess too many riders were complaining. the bike maintenance is going good, tire changes are going smooth and have extra time to check over the bike (anyone planning on doing a six days get lessons from Jeremy Ketchum)! my pit crew has been doing great, thanks mom, dad, jenny, pete, gene & angie, big brian, bob, shana (and now Kevin unfortunately). looking forward to a new trail tomorrow which from what i hear will be fun and east away from the coast & into more dusty rocky goat trails!!
