

Day 3: another day down with no route points but my special test times weren't good. i went down in the "rock garden test" and then had a spectacular one in the last test before impound. after hitting some deep sand whoops going into a fast sweeper i went over the bars and the corner of my barkbuster just about took off my right leg. my pants got torn and my entire barkbuster got stuck in my right pants leg while i was under the bike so i couldn't move very fast to get going again. i was on silver after day 2 but today will push me back a lot. hopefully no crashes tomorrow! some of the check crews felt the earth quake...my suspension on my ktm is so good i didn't even feel it!
